

“Gerry Lopez, jeune saxophoniste virtuose, fait ses armes sur les scènes jazz parisiennes. La sortie de son album FRO TRIO (Novembre 2012) marque très certainement la naissance d'un grand soliste”

Gerry Lopez

Saxophonist et Compositeur

Par John Williams

Born in Mexico in 1987, Gerry studied classical piano from the age of six years and the saxophone at the age of 12 years. After classical studies, he studied with Steve Coleman and Brian Lynch in New York for a year. He moved to Paris in 2011 and studied at the Paris Conservatoire with the direction of Jean Charles Richard.

Gerry Lopez became one of the most promising in Paris saxophonist since his arrival in 2011. In just a few years, the Mexican origin, has shared the stage with some of the greatest artists of the international jazz scene with Brian Lynch, Danilo Perez, Ali Jackson, Alain Perez, Carine Bonnefoy, etc. Baptiste Herbin.

He played in all the jazz clubs in Paris, including the Sunset - Sunside Duc Des Lombards, Baiser, New Morning, The blue, etc.

Gerry is the winner of the National Jazz Competition in Mexico, Concours Panamerican Saxophone 2011, Competition in France “Jazz National Defense” with his project in 2012.

In 2012, Gerry released his second album fro TRIO recorded with bassist Hans Glawischnig and drummer EJ Strickland.